

The Colonade

VOL. X

GEORGIA STATE COLLEGE FOR WOMEN, MILLEDGEVILLE, GA., DECEMBER 10, 1934.

NUMBER 8.

Reporters Spend Day 'Cubbing'

Journalism Class Gets Experience As News Hounds in Macon

The journalism class, accompanied by Dr. and Mrs. W. T. Wynn, went to Macon Thursday, Dec. 6 to assist with the editing of the Macon Telegraph. The young journalists for one day had the thrill of experiencing the true and exciting life of a newspaper reporter.

The class left the campus at the beginning of their regular 12:30 period stopping on their way over to enjoy a delightful lunch which had been prepared by the college dietitians. They arrived in Macon about 2:30 in the afternoon and after being given a few directions they left the office to test their "nose for news."

After all news was secured and when the papers had gone to press, the girls were honored at a supper at the Oriole by the Telegraph staff before returning to Milledgeville.

Betty Reed, Gainesville, and Dorothy Maddox, Griffin, assistants to the English department, were present to assist the young journalists. The members of the class include:

Doris Adamson, Evelyn Aubry,
(Continued on page 3)

Psychology Class Visits Special Clinic

The social psychology class, with the instructor Dr. Bolton, attended the clinic of the Georgia state mental hospital, conducted by Dr. Echols, Tuesday morning.

The histories of various patients in different stages of mental sickness were given, and the patients themselves were studied. Each patient showed poor mental and physical architecture. In discussing these subjects, Dr. Echols declared that the patients, both in care and treatment and in the prevention of the spread of diseases, were the real social problem of today.

The members of the class are: Elizabeth Ackerman, Augusta; Myron Boggas, Oxford; Mildred Brinson, Sylvania; Josephine Calhoun, Columbus; Sara Dawkins, Thomasville; Jane DuBose, Lucowick; Virginia Dunn, Milledgeville; Katherine Gibson, Augusta; Ethel Dye, Blythe; Martha Giesler, Atlanta; Mary Goldstein, Milledgeville; Georgia Gordon, Jesup; Katie Israels, Atlanta; Eloise Kaufman, Columbus; Claire Lanier, Statesboro; Mary McGuff, Brunswick; Marian Miles, Griffin; Ruth Pharr Roberts, Lawrenceville; Julia Rucker, Alpharetta; Vilda Shuman, Coolidge; Nellie Day Thompson, Wrightsville; Elizabeth Todd, Milledgeville; Ruth Vinson, Cordele; and Eleanor Wooten, Buena Vista.

Experienced "Cubs" Return With Laurels

The ways of a reporter's life are cruel, according to twenty-six members of the journalism class when they returned from their Macon trip early Friday morning.

Many were the tales told by the would-be-journalists. After interviewing people all over the city, from bootleggers to negro janitors, the trouble came when the cubs tried to write their news into a semblance of what a news story is supposed to be. With telephones ringing, orders being shouted, and twenty other ambitious but dumb reporters talking, the Telegraph office was a scene of disorder.

The cubs were excited; they handed purses to total strangers, they nearly got kidnapped, and they all tried the never-failing banana peel to get their stories. They returned sometime after midnight, footsore, weary, and disillusioned.

Home Ec Club Pays Tribute To Founder

MRS. RICHARDS, CLUB FOUNDER, IS THEME OF STUDENT PROGRAM

The members of the Clara W. Hasslock home economics club had charge of the chapel program on Friday morning. The program was given in honor of Ellen H. Richards, the founder of home economics in the United States.

The program was: devotional, Anne Arnett, Newnan; introduction of the program, Johnnie Wilson, Atlanta; Sketch of Ellen H. Richards' life, Doris Grossman, Brunswick; tribute to Mrs. Richards, Mary Glenn Allaben, Millen; violin solo, Mabel Brophy, West Palm Beach, Fla.; introduction to home economics, Mabel Ellis, Monticello; the family and its relation, Jane Simmons, Atlanta; the house, Virginia Oliver, College Park; family economics; Avlona Athon, Macon; clothing and textiles, Marion Miles, Griffin; foods and nutrition, Sarah Lyles, Marshallville; club song, the entire club.

Education Class Studies Schools

Dr. Harry Little and his class in Trends in Education spent last Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday in Atlanta visiting various Atlanta schools. Those making the trip were: Rosalyn Brown, Lorraine Carmichael, Marguerite Cassels, Mary Louise Dunn, Henrietta Greer, Martha Gesler, Lillian Goff, Elise Johnston, Lillan Jordan, Clara Lanier, Thelma Minton, Harriet Nelson, Willie Opie, Edith Perry, Julia Rucker, Frances Sanchez, Mary Elizabeth Smith, Mary Agnets Stapleton, Thelma Williams, and Miss Mary Brooks.

Garrison Talks to Students

Physical Education Lasts From Birth to Death, Says Speaker

Miss Florence Garrison, president of the Southern Health and Physical Education Association of teachers' colleges, in an address before the G. S. C. W. student body and faculty on Wednesday morning declared that it is our responsibility as educators to help people become intelligent self-directors and to have a desire to take part in wholesome activities during their leisure time.

"Every teacher," said Miss Garrison, "regardless of the subject she is teaching, has a responsibility in the health program of her pupils."

"If we are to live with people and teach them," the speaker continued, "we must know the facts, face the facts, and do something about the situation."

There are four goals, according to Miss Garrison, which we as leaders should help boys and girls to attain for themselves: to become attractive personally, interesting socially, rich spiritually, and possessed of a happy attitude toward life.

"There is no reason for the existence of a course that does not function," said Miss Garrison. "Anything in a department that is not some natural thing in life is not education. Physical education is a phase of education which begins with birth and ends with death. We must live with ourselves."

With a wholesome meal a day, a good night's rest, a daily bath, a little fun, and a job well done, Miss Garrison thinks that the world would be much saner, happier, and healthier.

Georgia Cherokees Present Program at G. M. C. Thursday

The Georgia Cherokees orchestra presented a program at G. M. C. on Thursday night at 7:45. A specialty number was given by Jackie Walker of Albany.

On Tuesday night the orchestra has been invited to go to Irwinton to give a program. The P. T. A. of that city is sponsoring the entertainment.

The orchestra will play for the Christmas meeting of the Milledgeville Garden club which will be held at the Mansion on Wednesday afternoon. In addition to the members of the Milledgeville garden clubs of Macon.

The Cherokees will furnish the music for the three-act play "Holidays" which will be staged by the Jesters on Friday night.

Chapel Program Announced Today

The chapel program for the week of December 10-14 has been announced by Dr. Guy H. Wells.

On Monday, December 10, the Honorable Marion H. Allen, of Milledgeville has been invited to speak to the faculty and student body on "Child Labor."

On December 11, the Yarbrough Ensemble will give a number of musical selections.

President S. V. Sanford of the University of Georgia has been invited to speak at the chapel hour on Wednesday morning.

The sophomore class, under the direction of Catherine Malory, will present an entertaining program on Friday morning, December 14.

Sylvia Lent To Be Second Lyceum Act

FAMOUS VIOLINIST TO APPEAR AS FEATURE OF ENTERTAINMENT

Sylvia Lent, world famous violinist, will appear on the second lyceum program of the year in a performance on December 13.

Miss Lent is considered by critics to be the foremost woman violinist in America. She received most of her training in this country and she has also studied under Franz Kneisel and Leopold Auer. When Auer came to the United States she was the first pupil he accepted.

Music critics have said, "There are few, if any, artists of her generation and sex who equal her as masters of the violin."

Miss Beatrice Horsbrugh, violin teacher here, was working with Auer at the time of Miss Lent came to study with him.

She speaks very highly of Miss Lent, and says that the master teacher Leopold Auer considered her an unusual violinist.

Tuberculin Test Nears Completion as X-rays are Made

Dr. H. C. Schenck, chief of the division of tuberculosis control of the state board of health, Mr. A. M. Tinsley, X-ray technician of the state board of health, Mrs. Margaret Patterson, and three FERA nurses spent December 6, 7, 8 in the health and physical department making X-rays of all positive reactors of the tuberculin tests made last week.

Dr. Clara B. Barrett, of the state board of health gave the tests to all students. Between four and five hundred X-rays were made by Dr. Schenck and his assistants.

Twenty-five pictures were taken each hour of the three days. Since each county in the state is represented (Continued on page 3)

Dr. Wells Elected to New Office

G. S. C. W. President Named Vice-President of Association

Dr. Guy H. Wells was elected second vice-president of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools at the annual convention which was held in Atlanta December 3 through 6. He will serve with Dean J. T. Davis, of John Tarlton A. and M. Junior College of Stephenville, Texas, as vice-president of the association for the next year.

The other officers elected are Mr. H. B. Heidleberg, president and President Guy E. Snavely, secretary and treasurer.

The headquarters for the convention were at the Biltmore hotel. The meeting of the executive committee was held December 4-6; the commission on institutions of higher education held its session December 3-5; the commission on secondary schools was held December 4-6.

The association, which has to do with the accredited standing of colleges and high schools holds a meeting annually to pass on the schools of the southern schools. At every convention additional schools are added to the list of accredited institutions and others are dropped. G. S. C. W. has been among the schools of highest rank for many years.

Other faculty members attending the meeting besides Dr. Wells were Dr. E. H. Scott and Dr. Hoy Taylor.

Freshman Council Has First Meeting

The members of freshman council held their first formal meeting since the election and chose their officers for the year. Those elected were Mary Langford, Griffin, president; LaVert Weems, Cartersville, vice-president; Joan Butler, Savannah, secretary; Libby Smith, Atlanta, treasurer.

Plans for the project to be sponsored by the council this year were discussed. Jane Cassells, Americus, as vice-president of the Y. W. C. A., is the student advisor to council, and Polly Moss is the faculty advisor.

Members of council include Aline Barron, Mary Nelle Briscoe, Eltyle Vaughan Burge, Joan Butler, Genie Castile, Beverly Cone, Mildred Cooke, Ruth Cheney, Virginia Doss, Charlotte Edwards, Martha Embry, Margaret Fowler, Margaret Garbutt, Anna Lee Gasque, Evelyn Greene, Clare Hotch, Elizabeth Hulsey, Gene Jones, Mary Langford, Frances McGary, Helen Mosely, Louisa Noyes, Rachel Persons, Mary Pritchett, Frances Roane, Elizabeth Smith, Frieda Wainwright, LaVert Weems, Sara Wicker, Inez Wilkes.

The Colonnade

Published Weekly By Students of The
GEORGIA STATE COLLEGE
FOR WOMEN
Milledgeville, Ga.
Corner Hancock and Clark Sts.

"Entered as second-class matter October 30, 1928, at the post office, Milledgeville, Ga., under the Act of March 3, 1879."

EDITORIAL STAFF

Editor-in-Chief Betty Reed
Associate Editor Marion Hartsorn
News Editors Evelyn Aubrey and Myra Jenkins

Feature Editor Julia Franklin
"Y" Editor Jane Cassells
Club Editor Frances Cowan
Editorial Editor Grace Greene

Reporters:
Doris Adamson, Anna Delia Brown,
Martha Franklin, Doris Grossman,
Elizabeth Henry, Adelaide Jackson,
Mildred Parker, Odene Peavy, Winnie
Shepherd, Marjorie Shuman, Marjorie
Smith, Sara Speir.

BUSINESS STAFF

Business Manager Anne Arnett
Advertising Editor Louise Donehoo
Exchange Editor Mary Louise Dunn
Advertising Assistant Martha Wyatt
Helen Wright
Circulation Manager Garnette Lyons

Bells

To sound or not to sound. That is the question today. That is the problem faced by the college siren and its adjuncts, to the confusion of students and faculty alike.

The bells in the different buildings all sound at different times; they are all different from the dormitory clocks; and the town clock has a time all its own. Is there not something that can be done?

Is there not some method that could be used to make all the bells sound at the same time? If not, the spasmodic ringing might well be eliminated to the good of all.

Sometimes, the bells in one building will not ring at all. By the time the students and the teacher realizes this, several minutes that should be used in going to next class have passed and the students are late for that class.

This is not a regular occurrence but even if it is not, the other times should be done away with so that students may get to their destinations on time. Sometimes, as if to make up for the times it missed ringing in the past months, the bells ring spasmodically and goes off in the middle of the class period. This naturally causes confusion.

This suggestion is not in any way critical of the administration. Letters have been received in the Colonnade office to the effect that students desire that something be done about the matter. They would like for the Powers Behind the Throne to know of the way the bells sound, or do not sound. Perhaps this is a condition that could easily be remedied.

This 'n' That

Things I can do without—

Long, red "woolies" . . . Four hours library work every day—Un-nice jokes . . . Teachers who think their course is the only one in existence . . . "Pie" beds . . . Deceiving men . . . Breakfast . . . White walls . . . Anything that to drink stronger than water . . . Artificial light . . . Watermelon . . . Straight chairs . . . Lazy roommates . . . Ed Wynn's radio program . . . Sleep . . . An "occasional" letter . . . My last year's roommate . . . Dizzy blondes . . . Salt . . . Autobiographies . . . Chemistry "bugs" . . . Day dreams . . . Money (it comes from long, long, years of tired and true practice.)

Things I'd like to see—

More friendliness on the campus . . . More social life . . . Food from home . . . Fewer leaves off the trees . . . A scrumptious snow . . . A dream walking . . . Seven letters, a special, two telegrams, and five packages in my mailbox someday that was not my birthday . . . Love in bloom (bet it would knock you off your feet) . . . Student government working perfectly . . . If Elizabeth Pollard could walk with her shoulders humped . . . Ruth Vinson when she wasn't smiling . . . Lou Ellis when she wasn't dancing . . . Yvonne D'Amour . . . What Ima Gossip looks like, how she works, and how she finds out all she knows . . .

Things I Like—
Men . . . Food . . . Letters . . . Good marks . . . A good argument . . . Newspapers . . . Typewriters . . . Night . . . Music . . . Lamp light . . . Open fires . . . Short lessons . . . Criticism . . . Truth sessions . . . Miss Adams . . . Ginny Oliver's laugh . . . Fish tails (tales) . . . Some slang expressions . . . Trees . . . Big words . . . Movies . . . Long distance telephone calls . . . Clothes . . . Big brothers . . . Weddings . . . Trees . . . Grass . . . Babies . . . My freshman "Little sister" . . . Soft chairs . . . Books . . . Dancing . . . Me.

Voice of the People

To The Editor of the Colonnade:

I wonder if something can't be done to bet the students on the campus to think? One would imagine that they were not thinking, judging by the way questions are asked at student body meetings.

The impression that I, as well as a number of other students, have gathered is that the majority of girls attend student body meetings for the sole purpose of stirring up antagonism. They ask questions that have not been thought out, they ask for more privileges when they do not show any responsibility toward the ones they already have.

Real life is "giving as well as taking" so why not start now? Why can't we give the best that we have in order to realize the best values from the students association.

I wonder how many girls stop to think how many changes have taken place in the past few months? It all can not be changed at the same time; so why not sit patiently? We can do our part toward furthering the things that will help the school, but that doesn't mean more privileges and fewer rules. It will ultimately, but it all depends on the way we treat things now. Can't the students see it that way?

I hope sincerely that something can be done, particularly about the questions at the student meetings. Can you offer any suggestions?
Grace E. Greene

Editor of Colonnade,

Dear Editor:

I saw on your editorial page last week an article that mentioned the fact that there were too many customs on the campus which existed purely through tradition. I'd like to speak about a custom which many feel comes under this group.

It seems to be the traditional thing for the chapel devotional exercises to be led by the men of the faculty only. I am a junior, and I have never yet seen a woman professor asked to read the Bible unless it was on a special program.

When one takes into consideration the number of women religious leaders on the campus—including Misses Moss, Hallie Smith, Tait, and Napier—he realizes that the above practice not only seems unreasonable, but that it proves that we are not using our faculty talent to the best advantage.

It would mean that in a Woman's College, whose very existence signifies a large trend of public thought in favor of less discrimination between the two sexes, this custom of men taking the lead in religious exercises would be abolished.

And while we're on the subject of devotional exercises, I think that the students would appreciate a few remarks or a small personal touch by faculty members after the scripture reading, rather than the same ritual of song-scripture-prayer every morning. I remember once when I was a freshman that Dr. Lindsey, upon completing a reading of the first few verses in Genesis on the creation of the world, made a few comments on the fact that God was a great chemist. It is this sort of thing that ties up the devotional with every-day life.

Yours for more women and more personal tie-ups in our devotional exercises.
I. P. L.

G. S. C. W. Celebrities

(Augusta Chronicle)

College celebrities are usually projected by the faculty or the trustees for the benefit of the institution. The custom of the old graduates returning to the college at Milledgeville for the Thanksgiving season had its birth in circumstances growing out of the needs of those who went out to become the first of that army of trained teachers who now have charge of the children of Georgia.

At the celebration last Friday morning in the new chapel at the Georgia State College for Women the history of such a meeting was traced. The old G. N. & I. C. sent the first trained teachers to the Georgia schools. When Thanksgiving time came the teachers wanted and needed contact with those who gave them their places of service. They turned their faces to the old campus and again assembled for the exchange of ideas and the gathering of inspiration for the spring months.

It was an easy matter to mark the trend in Georgia educational work by listening to those who return for the programs in Milledgeville. The applause given to Dr. Guy Wells, the new president of the college, assured those who were there that he is making a great record and the alumni are giving him their hearty support. His address of welcome marked him as a real leader and his vision has already become a part of that institution.

At the banquet for the alumni Dr. Wells outlined some of the advances the college is to make in the immediate future. He said that, first of all, the college must assume responsibility for those who graduate and find a place in life for them. The past has been almost completely given over to furnishing teachers.

Industry is to be studied and business administration is to be materially strengthened. There seems to be special need for efficient secretaries who are able to buy equipment and start an office functioning. He then drew attention to the fact that social workers are in demand. The government seems to have seriously undertaken a work which will give the young women of Georgia many places of service. Corporations also have begun to employ those who are able to teach efficient ways to apply modern mechanical aids in keeping a home.

Dr. Wells reached to the height of his audience when he said "woman controls" and makes civilization. Her knowledge of health and home-making determines the kind of people we have in Georgia." He paid a splendid tribute to the women of the Alumni association when he drew attention to the fact that he has found the members "sincere, kind, honest and appreciative."

Ima GOSSIP

Who was the little girl who said she couldn't learn to crochet because she is a knit wit? Donno? Well, she's the same person who gave the bright answer when her best prospect asked her if she wanted to learn to sew. She stuck him when she so coyly answered that she didn't care to take instructions in sewing, but that she would like to watch "him stitch"—if he were giving lessons. She explained that she made her living not by making dresses but rather by selling honey, since her motto is "To be rather than to seem." Ain't that th' life?

Were you one of those of a feather who left their perch and flocked to the bird walk? I know I'm rather flighty at times but I shd thought twice when they asked me to go, for ever since I was arrested for jay-walking I have tried to be careful. I do wish I could have had a bird's eye view of the lecture they gave. The thing was to be illustrated with slides, so they say. If those slides were anything like the ones we saw such people as Dr. Little and Dr. McGee take in the "Rolling Riot" at Nesbitt Woods one time they oughta been pretty slick. So! they're teaching people to slip up on birds these days, are they?

Have any of you seen Martha Hale's new toy? I hear it's a cute little black dog that was sent to her from Albany. Its name is Penny but she is going to call it Scent for short. Bet it would make a good hunting dog 'cause there's a sense of smell even in its name. With such a name as Penny the little pup is liable to cheep instead of bark, don'tcha guess?

Well, well, so Mary Langford has a boy friend who thinks she's cute and likes to read! Either that or he's trying to give dear old busted Uncle Sam a break, for he sends special deliveries world without end!! Ho hum, I guess spending so much cash for postage truly stamps him as a gentleman with intentions. Wonder if he'll pay for investigating in such! (I mean stamps.) I believe he likes to write, too, and with a man of so many words the telegraph system just ain't got a chance.

Y'all shoulda seen our beloved Polly hanging through teh tramson over in Terrell the other nite. Surely you have heard it 'cause things like that—and Polly—will get out. Anyway, the moral of this story is to never, never lock Polly in a room that has a tramson. You can't "down" her, girls. She won't go under but she'll shd go over!

Speaking of Moss 'n hanging things, I wonder how Mary Leverett feels about the kind that's clinging to her heart. Moss really is his name and Mary says with an all sweet smile that "he's a true ol' softie."

She has never seen him climb a tree nor does he crawl along the ground; fact is, Mary says he's different from any Moss she has ever seen. We haven't quite found out yet why she has such a dreamy expression about ten minutes to ten every night but when I do "loirn why" I'll let you know—'cause,

Ima Gossip

Strong Phrase in 1800

LAFAYETTE, Tenn. (UP)—Old records of Dixon's Creek Baptist Church, founded in 1800, show that a headstrong girl of long ago was evaled for giving voice to such a vicious phrase as "Durn it."

UASKME

Are You Having Trouble With Flashlights? Are You Being Barred From Freedom By a Mere Circumstance? Is Teaching Getting You That "Hang-Dog" Expression? There Is No Longer Any Need For You To Worry. Let Yvonne D'Amour Do Your Worrying For You!

Dear Miss Yvonne D'Amour, Last week-end while visiting a friend we both dated boys from Georgia. We decided to walk a well known path in the moonlight. My date and the friend excused themselves, supposedly, to go get a flashlight to lighten up the path. When they returned—no flashlight—"the bulb was broken and the battery burned out." What is wrong with my sex appeal? Why can't I hold my man?

I am a petite blonde with baby blue eyes, rosy cheeks, kissable lips, and a good figure, in case uns description will aid you in solving my problem.

"Tuts."

Ask good 'ole Santa Claus to bring you a pocket size flashlight. I'm certain can't pull the same stunt twice. Anyway, what was the matter with the other boy left with you? Was his battery burned out or was there a short circuit somewhere? Your description sounds almost perfect but you neglected to mention the "come nither" look in your baby blue eyes. Maybe, that is what is wrong with your sex appeal. Here is a game tried and proved exercise guaranteed to produce that alluring glint. First, equip yourself with blinders and stand in front of the mirror; count one, two, three to get into the proper state of mind; four, close the eyes tightly; five, register a baby stare; six, seven, and eight, wave your lashes in the breeze three times; nine, focus both eyes on the right blinder; ten, focus both eyes on the left under. If you practice this faithfully, by Christmas your boy friend will need no flashlight to lighten the path. He will follow the gleam of your lamps.

Optometrically yours,
Yvonne D'Amour

Dear Miss Yvonne, Although I have not yet seen a letter revealing a plight similar to mine, I think you have the keys to my problem. I want to know how to pick door locks; I am tired of crawling through the transoms. Recently, a certain incident made me realize the desirability of investigating the mechanics of door locks. Shall I consult a locksmith or will you do it?

"Y" be a secretary, I thought you wouldn't even kill a fly and here you've gone and started slamming doors. Borrow one of the "Seven Keys to Baldpate." By the way, what did you do with that key Dr. Wells gave to the alumnae? You might try being more delicate in your treatment of the door. It is also a generally accepted fact that a woman can do anything with a hairpin. If the hairpin won't work, try Miss Scott's "Worm Tnae Turned."

Through the keyhole with Yvonne D'Amour

Dear Miss D'Amour, What in the world do you do with a roommate who teaches preschool? She insists on trying out her methods and telling me bedtime stories every night. Furthermore, she uses pre-school dialect even in ordinary conversation. Her favorite expression is "Let's all do etc." It is getting me to the point

Unique Club Plans Work For the Year

The members of the Southpaw club held a call meeting on Wednesday afternoon in the biology lecture room. Gladys Harris, president, presided over the business session. Committees were appointed and include:

Program, Mary Elise Samson, chairman; Lila Seyle, Sue Coleman, Kate Blue, and Avlona Athan.

Social, Marion Baughan, chairman; Lucile Nelson, Florence Moore, and Mary Leverett.

Finance, Lessie Smith, Chairman; Marilucy Hammett and Pearl Cannon.

On Monday afternoon the regular meeting of the club was held and Dr. Thomas B. Meadows led an open forum discussion on the psychology of left-handedness. Plans were made to send out questionnaires to schools and colleges in the state to find out how many left-handed students there are attending school, and so that a wider study be made at G. S. C. W.

Journalism Class Gets Experience as News Hounds

(Continued from page 1)

Ruth, Vera Courson, Sara Ellene Cronin, Grace Eidson, Ruth Gaston, Grace Greene, Lucille Griffith, Lorraine Harper, Marion Hartsorn, Adelaide Jackson, Myra Jenkins, Catherine Mallory, Mary McGriff, Adelia Park, Barlice Saltsman, Weldon Seals, Evelyn Shealy, Winnie Sheppard, Marjorie Shuman, Margery Smith, Annie Margaret Spears, Sara Speer, and Elizabeth Todd.

Tuberculin Test

(Continued from page 1)

Entered on the campus, the widespread health protection that will result from this project cannot be estimated to the state.

have an uncontrollable desire to teeter-totter every afternoon, and the slide has a fatal fascination for me. What on earth am I going to do?

Distracted

Dear Distracted, When she starts orating, you get wise and orate, too. The course on "Adolescent Psychology," which I prescribed once before, will help you to be more in sympathy with her problems. Take a journalism course. You know a newspaper woman always has the last word. You might make a practice of not being home when the story hour rolls around. Now then, I know of but one other thing to do: just grin and bear it.

Yvonne D'Amour

SPECIAL CHICKEN DINNER

25c PLATE

CITY CAFE

We do not sell beer

SODA WATER WITH A TWANG IN CLEAR SPARKLING GLASSES

BINFORD'S DRUG STORE

Through the Week With The Y. W. C. A.

Listening to announcements in chapel and in the dining halls is enough to convince one that committees are doing things—some of them, at least. Economics with its discussion on capitalism, C. W. E. with Dr. McGee on disarmament, Membership with Mrs. McCullar on social problems—and many others, all meeting last week. And from the reports heard around and about, they were all good meetings.

All the questionnaires which were answered by Y members attending the Association Meeting a few weeks ago have been checked, and results will be posted in the Y Room sometime this week. Go by and read what the student body says about the YWCA. There were only about 200 people at the meeting, and only about that many voted on what the theme for the Y would be in January. There may be many others who would like to vote on this theme, and so it will be taken up in committees sometime before Christmas. In case you don't belong to a committee, or if you miss that meeting where the theme is voted on, go by the Y room and vote on the paper tacked on the wall.

It was a fine bunch of freshmen that stood up in chapel the other day when the Freshman Council roll was read. The Councilors were formally installed at a candlelight service Sunday night, and they have adopted Saturday afternoon as the time for their second meeting. With the officers and the councilors that they have, they ought to go places. We like their pep and enthusiasm.

Vespers will be held Sunday night with Tommy Cook speaking on "The Right Attitude Toward Christmas." Activity Council has charge of the program on Thursday night.

Teachers Attend Modern Language Meet in Charleston

Dr. W. C. Salley, Dr. Sidney McGee, Miss Winifred Crowell, and Miss Pattie Turner spent the weekend of November 29 to December 2 in Charleston, S. C. attending a meeting of the South Atlantic Modern Languages Association.

Dr. Salley, the chairman of the Spanish group, led two interesting programs on Friday and Saturday mornings.

Dr. McGee was appointed a member of the nominating committee to select the officers of the association for the next year. The meeting next year will be held in Athens.

On Saturday the G. S. C. W. teachers were invited by the Charleston Poetry society, of which Dubose Heyward is the president, to attend a meeting of the society held that night. Edna St. Vincent Millay was the guest of honor at the meeting and read a number of her poems.

Virginia Tanner Talks at Freshman Class Meeting

Miss Virginia Tanner, president of the class of 1934, spoke to the members of the freshman class at a meeting held Saturday morning in the auditorium.

Miss Tanner's subject was Student Government. She stressed the importance of giving, not getting, in regard to student government. She showed the marked changes and improvements made in the short time since she first came to G. S. C. W.

She suggested that groups of students meet before the regular student body meetings and decide on the questions to be brought up at the meeting. Questions should be discussed thoroughly before they are put before the student body, according to Miss Tanner.

New Education Course Offered in Winter

NEW EDUCATION COURSE . . .

Dr. Little will offer Education, 490, Aims and Objectives of the curriculum, during the winter quarter. This class will meet at 9 A. M.

This course, which is an outgrowth of the curriculum revision in Georgia, is largely a laboratory one, with the library used daily.

The state department insists that all teachers take this course, and sooner or later it will probably be required for a teacher's certificate. Teachers in 82 different centers, 1600 in all in the state, are now taking this work.

Movies at a Glance

Do you know "what every woman knows?" Did you know that there's a woman behind the success of every self-made man? Did you know that a woman shouldn't tell her husband everything? Did you know that a woman must hold the man she loves—but do you know how? See how Helen Hayes shows that she knows "What Every Woman Knows" at the Colonial Monday and Tuesday.

With four "dark 'n' handsome" men vying for her favor, Barbara Stanwyck in the picture, "Lost Lady" at the Colonial Wednesday, does what any woman would do—gets flabbergasted, and marries to escape love.

Right out of prison stripes and into the thick of the battle for Belford college, Eddie Quillian heaves the pigskin down the field in "Gridiron Flash" at the Colonial Friday. He steals the watch of the campus cop, the heart of the campus queen—and incidentally the whole show.

COMPLIMENTS OF GOLDSTEIN'S

Get Your Christmas Cards

At

Wooten's Book Store

Have your name or monogram embossed on same.

Rabbit Foot Serves to Make Students Confident in Class

The anatomy class feels that it has something vitally important to tell many worried members of the campus. The "I Don't Know Club," organized early in the year by members of the anatomy class, felt deeply distressed over the fact that exams were just around the corner and decided something should and must be done to relieve this plight.

Now their worrying has ceased. One resourceful soul in the class put on her thinking cap and purchased a rabbit foot. Each day as the girls are called on to recite, the said rabbit foot makes its round. No girl feels that she can do her topic justice without the full support of the "piece of good luck." It is hard to conceive the calm and sure feeling possessed when called upon to recite and knowing that the rabbit foot is "in hand."

All gets well until—some girl gets so excited over her perfect recitation that she forgets to pass the foot, thus leaving the next victim speechless.

The anatomy class suggests that other struggling students try their plan. It works—really.

Dr. McGee Speaks At Committee Meet

Dr. Sidney McGee was the guest speaker at the meeting of the Christian World Education committee in the "Y" room Monday afternoon.

Dr. McGee conducted an open forum on the questions of disarmament and the League of Nations. All members of the committee present took part in the discussion. The decision was reached that the solution for world peace lies in the economic system rather than wholly in disarmament.

Sandwich Shop

Try one of our Hamburgers
The Best You Ever Ate
Fine Home Made Candy, Also

ODORLESS CLEANERS

FREE DRY CLEANING
—for—
JEAN ELIZABETH BURKE

DRINK

Coca-Cola
IN BOTTLES

50 Christmas Cards
$1.00

Your name printed on each card to match sentiment.

When next in our store ask to see this group of cards.

MILLER'S

Senior Class Entertains at Formal Dance

Members of the senior class entertained with a formal dance Saturday night in the Ina Dillard Russell Library from 8 until 12 o'clock.

Officers of the four classes and of student government were honor guests on this occasion.

The grand march began at the head of the stairs and continued down the broad stairway to the main floor of the building.

Chaperones for the social entertainment included: Dr. and Mrs. Guy H. Wells, Dr. and Mrs. Edwin H. Scott, Miss Ethel Adams, Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Fowler, Dr. and Mrs. Sidney McGee, Miss Polly Moss, Miss Margaret Candler and Mr. Emile Lugand; Miss Annie Joe Moye and Major C. E. Ray; Mrs. M. M. Martin, who was the representative of the House Mothers; and Dr. and Mrs. Hoy Taylor.

The Seven Seas Orchestra furnished music for the dancers.

Mrs. McCullar Speaks on Social Problems

Mrs. C. B. McCullar spoke to the membership committee of the Y. W. C. A. at a meeting held Tuesday night at 7 o'clock in the biology lecture room.

Mrs. McCullar chose as her subject "Social Problems," which included discussion of the human relations between men and women of today.

Immediately after Mrs. McCullar's talk, a short business meeting was held, with Kathleen Roberts presiding.

Home Economics Students Present Radio Program

Several members of the Clara W. Hasslock home economics club presented a radio program over station WMAZ in Macon on Monday afternoon. The program was given in honor of Ellen H. Richards, the founder of home economics.

McArva Allen, state chairman of the student home economics clubs in Georgia, presided over the program and paid tribute to Mrs. Richards. Emily Cowart sang the home economics club song which was written by Mabel Ellis. Included on the program were several students from the Miller High school club in Macon.

After the tea, Mrs. J. M. Murray, chairman of the advisory committee, entertained with a tea at her home in honor of the G. S. C. W. students.

Miss Clara Hasslock, Virginia Oliver, and—XXplease finish up.

Atlanta Club Plans Dance for Holidays

The Atlanta club met in Terrell hall on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Plans for the annual Christmas dance were completed. Catherine Johnson, chairman of the social committee, presided.

The dance this year will be given on December 25 from 9 till 12 o'clock at the officer's club at Fort McPherson. The music will be furnished by Jimmy Stringer and his orchestra.

Those attending the dance will be the students and alumnae of G. S. C. W. in Atlanta, and other G. S. C. W. students who are invited.

Campus Notes

Mrs. D. Harrell, a representative of the Singer Sewing Machine company of Macon, was a guest in the home economics department on Monday to demonstrate attachments on the sewing machine. Home economics students of the department and from the practice school attended the demonstration.

Mr. Ralph Connor, secretary of the National Progressive Education Association, will visit the college next Thursday. He will speak to the college and training school faculty.

The following officers were elected at a recent meeting of the Oratorio society: president, Virginia Cason; vice-presidents, Nellie Burgin, Mary McGavock, Mr. Banks; secretary-treasurer, Catherine Moore.

Dr. Thomas B. Meadows will speak at the Baptist Workers Council in Milledgeville Monday night on "The Simplicity of Christ's Teachings." The program will be in charge of Mrs. C. B. McCullar, teacher of the Philathea class.

Mrs. E. H. Scott, wife of Dr. Edwin H. Scott, was elected president of the Baptist W. M. U. Monday.

Basketball Hobby Group Organizes

The basketball hobby group was organized Thanksgiving morning under the direction of Miss Blanche Greene.

The aims of this organization are to learn to coach and referee games, and to improve technique in the playing of the game. The meetings will be held each Wednesday afternoon at 5:30 in the gymnasium.

Charter member of the group are Evelyn Green, Martha Williams, Ruth Gaston, Dorothy Thomas, Edna Jo Butler, Mary Hasty, Frances Roane, Elizabeth Stucky, Mary Lassiter, and Caroline Weddington.

Activity Council Elects Officers Thursday Night

The officers of activity council were elected at a meeting held Thursday night, November 29. The officers are Sara K. Vann, Macon, president; Mary Harrelson, Decatur, vice-president; Carolyn Coleman, Perry, secretary; Ethel Tos, treasurer; Ellen Boyer, Sparta, chairman of the vesper committee.

This is the third year that activity council has been functioning on the G. S. C. W. campus. The council is for the purpose of giving each student a chance to participate in the Y. W. C. A. activities, and girls from all classes are eligible for membership.

The hobby groups and activities sponsored by council will be announced at an early date.

For Christmas Gifts or for Yourself

TAM AND SCARF SETS
$1.00

Come in our store and see our Christmas Display

Union Dept. Store

Activity Council Holds Meet Tuesday

Activity council met in Arts building Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock with Sara K. Vann, Macon, presiding.

Plans for a program to be given at chapel were discussed, and arrangement for a Christmas basket were made. Mr. Harding, the Episcopal minister, will be asked to their Christmas party.

During the evening Dot Thomas, Macon, spoke on What Has Been, and Mary Dan Ingram, Fayetteville, discussed What Can Be.

Officers are: president, Sara Vann, Macon; vice-president, Mary Harrelson, Decatur; treasurer, Ethel Tos; and secretary, Carolyn Coleman, Perry.

Faculty Member Talks on Biblical Character

Mrs. C. B. McCullar gave the first of a series of six lectures on young people of the Bible in the Y room Sunday at five o'clock. She spoke on "The Cinderella of the Bible."

Esther was the Cinderella, who rose from the orphan ward of Mordecai to the position of queen of Ahasuerus, king of Persia. As in the fairy tale when Cinderella was having a wonderful time at the ball, the clock struck and everything disappeared; so it was with Esther, for when she was happiest, the treachery of Haman threatened her people. Through Esther saved her people through the Jews although he could not revoke the decree he had signed ordering them to be killed. Cinderella cared for her sisters after she married the prince charming; Esther saved her people through her rank as queen.

Mrs. McCullar's next lecture, to be delivered Sunday, December 9, will be entitled "The Man Who Received the World's Worst Telegram."

Mrs. Marye Talks On Homes and Gardens

Mrs. Florence Marye, of Atlanta, an authority of homes and gardens in the South, presented a series of lectures at the Georgia State College for Women, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Mrs. Marye's discussion Tuesday afternoon dealt with Georgia's place in the early house and garden history of America. This lecture was illustrated with colored slides. Tuesday night, in the college auditorium, she lectured to an enthusiastic audience on boxwood, tracing its use through the ages. Wednesday morning at the college chapel exercises she spoke on proportion, harmony, simplicity, and value, in connection with the home and its surroundings.

CHRISTMAS SPECIALS

1 8x10 — $1.50
1 5x7 — $1.00
3 3x4 — $1.00

Annual Negatives Only

EBERHART
STUDIO

And Then There Was The Freshie

—who asked how often G. S. C. W. held "those annual hikes!"

—who signed out in the dormitory book to attend a class meeting.

—who upon reading a notice telling all who had not seen a coconut a la natural to go by a certain Enn's Hall address asked what she should do if she had seen one?

—who asked if the freshmen couldn't have an optional meal "just once a week!"

—who said she had appeared before upper court once and wouldn't mind going again?

—who answered in the affirmative when asked if she could see the blackboard but added that she couldn't read what was on it!

'34 Graduates Have Reunion Thursday at Baldwin Hotel

A number of graduates of the class of 1934 were entertained Thanksgiving night at an informal dinner in the private dining room of the Baldwin hotel. Plans were made for the class reunion in June.

The table was decorated in black and orange, the class colors, and white chrysanthemums and ivy were used very effectively throughout the room. The only light in the room was candle-light.

Among those present were Misses Helen Barker, LaGrange, Lillian Dillard, Macon; Dot Smoth, Milledgeville; Althea Smith, Macon; Lucile Vincent, Macon; Louise Hatcher, Milledgeville; Virginia Tanner, Douglas; Margaret Johnson, Gordon; Nelle Robinson, Macon; Polly Moss, Milledgeville, and Mrs. Sidney Tidwell, the former Mrs. Irene Farren, Macon.

Mansion Officers Honored at Tea

An informal tea was given Saturday afternoon at 4:30 in honor of the Mansion dormitory officers by Selma Robinett, president.

As hostess, she received the following officers: vice-president, Mary McGriff; secretary, Margaret Hansell; treasurer, Ruth Cheney. Others present were: Mrs. Maude Bates, house-mother; Dorothy Maddox and Barlice Saltzman.

Be sure that you visit our Beauty shop this week. Special prices on permanent waves—

And Spiral-end Curls and Oil Shampoos

If you want the best, shop at

E. E. Bell's

Freshman Council Installed Sunday

The formal installation of the thirty members of the freshman council of the Y took place Sunday night at 6:45 in the auditorium.

The councillors, dressed in white, entered from the two rear doors of the auditorium. Singing "Father of Light," they proceeded down the aisle and onto the stage where they formed a semi-circle.

The house was then darkened, the only light being the tapers burning on the stage. Polly Moss, faculty advisor of the council, spoke on seeking life through love. Jane Cassels, supervisor, talked on evaluating the forces of life in formulating a philosophy of life.

Le Vert Weems, vice-president, read an excerpt from the "Prophet." A solo, "I Would Be True," was sung by Eltye Vaughn Burge. Reading of the Scripture by Elizabeth Smith, treasurer, was followed by a prayer read by Joan Butler, secretary. Mary Langford, council president, spoke on the aims of freshman council.

A candle light service was then held. Jane Cassels lit her candle from the central taper on the stage, then lit the candle of a council member. As each girl received the light she passed it on to her neighbor in the symbolical ceremony.

A chant, "Let the Words of My Mouth," by the council members concluded the installation.

COLONIAL THEATRE

FRANK D. ADAMS, Manager

Monday and Tuesday
Dec 10-11th

HELEN HAYES

OUR GUESTS THIS WEEK ARE:
Irene Gibson, Mildred Hicks, Elizabeth Gibson, Mildred Hicks, Elizabeth T. Smith.

Wednesday
Dec. 12th
Barbara Stanwyck in
"LOST LADY"
With Ricardo Cortez

Thursday
Dec. 13th
Russ Columbo and
June Knight in
"WAKE UP AND DREAM"